

A scatter plot showing 100 data points. The points are colored based on their density, with a color gradient from dark blue (low density) to red (high density). The points are distributed in a non-uniform, elongated shape, with a higher concentration of red points in the central region and blue points towards the periphery. The plot is enclosed in a rectangular frame with tick marks on all four sides.

